

AIX: How do you send an attachment via mail

Article Number: 258 | Rating: Unrated | Last Updated: Mon, Jun 11, 2018 12:44 PM

Uuencode is the answer:

uuencode [source-file] [filename].b64 mail -v -s "subject" [email-address]

For example:

uuencode /etc/motd motd.b64 mail -v -s "Message of the day" email@hostname.com

use the .b64 extension which gets recognized by Winzip. When you received your email in Outlook, you will have an attachment, which can be opened by Winzip.
